If you are court ordered to treatment...

- ❖ Welcome to the Wellness Center! Please know our clinic offers a variety of services and we will gladly work with you to meet your requirements as ordered by the court.
- ❖ Because you are referred by the court, the Wellness Center must communicate with the court about your attendance and whether you are participating in counseling.
- ❖ You MUST present you court documents when you make your appointment for your counseling to count toward the order from the court. We will make copies for your Wellness Center file, so you can keep your original documents.
- ❖ As a court-ordered client, you must keep all of your appointments with us (including group therapy if this is a part of your treatment plan.) If you miss your appointment, you will be referred back to the court and must get the court's permission (in writing) to reschedule services under the original court order.
- ❖ If you are referred by the San Carlos Tribal Court, they allow rescheduling of a court ordered appointment for two reasons only: to participate in the wake/funeral of an immediate family member or when called up for seasonal firefighting. You must call us BEFORE your appointment to let us know that you will be missing for one of these two reasons. If you are called for fire fighting, please have your supervisor fax us the manifest with your name and dates of work. [If you are referred by another court, we will need to contact that court to see if these excuses will be acceptable]
- ❖ If you have any questions, please discuss these with the Wellness Center Clinical Coordinator, your case manager, or the counselor to whom you are assigned.
- ❖ We look forward to working together!
